

line unquestionably easier than with a nine-footer. While it has enough through-action to make casting pleasantly smooth, there's plenty of accuracy for dry-fly fishing. The rod tip is firm enough to drive larger sea trout hooks firmly home, but without a jarring effect (see Introduction: Materials). So fine leaders can safely be used. NEW ERA gives plenty of sport with school sea trout, thanks to its action and lightness, but has power enough to take on grilse and large sea trout with ease.

New Era — Sections: 2. Ferrules: spigot. Rings: butt and tip, special hard, intermediate: hoop. Winch fittings: screw lock. Line: 7-9. Length: 10' 6".

The Loch TROUT FLY ROD

Bank or boat fishing, forward-taper of double-taper lines, the LOCH has the power to give maximum water coverage. And because of its length and action — and lightness of course — it gives you results with much less effort than shorter rods demand. When you fish dry fly, it's accurate in casting, quick and effective on the strike. Yet it's gentle enough for fine leaders and small flies, too. Roll casting can be done very efficiently. The LOCH gives great sport with average fish, yet handles specimens without a qualm. We take it as a compliment that its action has been likened to that of the popular greenheart rods manufactured in similar lengths many years ago.

Loch — Sections: 2. Ferrules: spigot. Rings: butt and tip, special hard, intermediate: hoop. Winch fittings: screw lock. Lines: 7-8. Length: 10' 6".

The Loch LLV TROUT FLY ROD

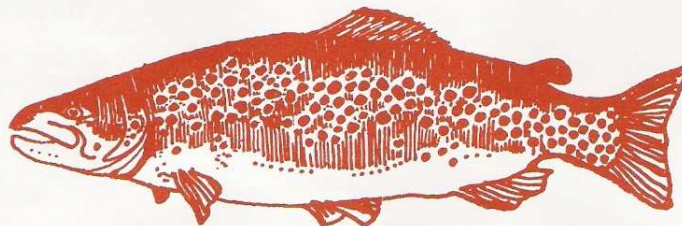

The light line version of the Loch rod, built to carry an AFTM No. 6 line. The rod has the right amount of graduated through-action for very effective roll casting after the flies have been fished very close up to the angler. Light enough for fishing throughout the day.

Loch LLV — Sections: 3. Ferrules: spigot. Rings: butt and tip, special hard, intermediate: snake. Winch fittings: screw lock. Lengths: 9' 6". Lines: 6. 10'. Lines: 6.

The Border WET FLY ROD FOR BROWN TROUT AND GRAYLING

A unique rod, built to handle the light line and fine leader of the experienced wet fly fisherman. Its length gives you the line control you want when fishing upstream or across the current. Its suppleness makes for effortless switch and roll-casting — so it can save time when trout are moving well. And its action coupled with light weight make it very quick indeed to hook a fish. You'll find it gives more enjoyment when playing an averaged size fish, too, especially when matched against the shorter, over-powered rods one sees so often nowadays. Veteran anglers recognise the BORDER as the lightweight successor to the splendid long greenheart rods of years ago. We feel that many younger wet fly men could benefit from trying this rod, unrivalled in its class.

Border — Sections: 3. Ferrules: spigot. Rings: butt and tip, special hard, intermediate: snake. Winch fittings: screw lock. Line: 5-6. Length: 10' 6".

The Orthodox DRY FLY ROD

This is a rod with something new to offer. We've used our special combination of materials and compound taper construction to enable it to improve the performance of less-than-expert casters. The through-action makes timing less critical than with stiffer, faster rods. At the same time, the tip stubbornly refuses to drift. So extreme accuracy and the power to throw long lines aren't wasted.

That's why the good caster will like ORTHODOX, too. Performance against the wind is excellent. Experienced anglers who have tried ORTHODOX have nothing but praise to offer — even though we invited their criticisms. However, its great attribute is the confidence it gives to the less experienced fisherman.

Orthodox — Sections: 2. Ferrules: spigot. Rings: butt and tip, special hard, intermediate: snake. Winch fittings: screw lock. Lengths: 9'. Lines: 7. 8' 6". Lines: 7.